A well organised module that is relatable to the real world.

All good

All is good.

As a year 3 student, this subject is teaching what have been taught in previous subjects.

Best subject

Dr nur has great knowledge

Everything's fine

Feel great with this subject

Great

Great lecturer.

Have a clear understanding about the subject

I have a clear understanding in the lecture and workshop sessions.

I hope miss can prepare a slide when she doing explain for calculating during workshop time. Or maybe just talk it during online class so we have the recording .Thanks

I love her lesson where she provide lots of extra knowledge but I think if the teaching speed slightly slower will make it better

She say want to upload recorded but then in fact not uploading it and did not upload the answer for workshops.
Sometimes, she delay the syllabus

Still can improve

Subject material too mess

The learning materials are very messy and it is not aligned with the lecture videos or live lecture where the sequence is all wrong. Lectures notes are not even prepared for some topics.

The structure of the subject make me feel it is not so organised and each of the topics is not really link by each other, which end up make me not understand the main direction of the subject.

The subject helps students to understand more on the financial institutions and personal financial planning.

The subject is overall very relevant to what I am studying.

The subject is well-structured.

The workshop materials are extra knowledge which are more practical for our learning, it is good but cannot help us to have a deeper understanding for lecture materials

This subject is a little bit hard for me...

This subject is relevant to my future career pathway.

This subject might be useful but basically because of the lecturer, the subject is not well-structured and the learning outcome for each topic in not clear.

Topics in the subject could be restructured as too much time was spent on the first few chapters which are easier, and the harder chapters are rushed.

i am quite okay with the overall subject but the way of conveying is important. We do not have clear lecture notes to learn on especially the last 2 chapters. our lecturer gave us the textbook version of notes instead of giving us simplified one like previous chapters that easy to read and study. teacher should have know that student have other subject to commit on and didnt have much time to study thick textbook. she can gave us simlified and clear notes like ppt slides to read on instead she gave us the entire chapter on the textbook for us to refer. some tutorial questions are not clear also. at first tutorial and workshop questions are separated but now everything lumps up together. worskhop lesson is teaching tutorial questions which makes me feel so confused every week. nonetheless, all the workshop and tutorial questions was not updated 1 day before or even 1 HOUR BEFORE. me as a student opt for more traditional way of learning by printing the questions out but this lecturer only

All good.

All good. Just the pre-recorded can be recorded earlier for student to watch it

All great. I personally like the workshop session where the lecturer will discuss the real-time scenario of the role of financial institutions with us. For instance, the role of IMF during Asian Financial Crisis, the domino effect and systemic risks of the collapse of Signature Bank in US, etc.

All is good

Best teacher

Class can be confusing sometimes

Dr Nur Ain always provide insightful perspectives on the topics that motivate me to delve into the topics after class.

Dr Nur Ain is patient with questions and provide useful feedbacks

Dr Nur Ain needs to talk slower as most students are unable to cope with the subject well. Also, please be in same pace as students who really needs help.

Dr Nur Ain seems like a very friendly, positive and passionate lecturer during class when there's everyone; but when I consult her one to one or email her, her tone seems slightly annoyed and impatient; so I don't know whether she's too stressed or busy.

Next, the lecture materials on elearn are very messy, I spend so much time searching which is which (workshop articles and tutorials are mixed together) hope this can be improved.

Dr Nur Ain is a very friendly, passionate teacher when she's teaching classes, but somehow I feel like when consulting 1 to 1, her tone is quite impatient/ annoyed, maybe she's too tired or stressed, don't really know :')

Next materials on elearn are very messy, I often spend a lot of time finding the materials needed (workshop article and tutorial mixed together) hope this can improve and have separate folder for workshop and tutorial

---

Dr. Ains did not actually teach what was on lecture notes, in fact I am not sure if it is because the lecture notes are incomplete? Knowledge taught in class is often unrelated to the academic resources we have, leaving students feeling confused + not sure what content is actually in our syllabus in order for us to prepare for tests. For workshop classes, I recommend Dr. Ains to provide us a sample model answer just for our understanding. Instead, when I asked for workshop answers, she would ask me to do on my own and send to her afterwards for a review. I appreciate Dr Ains' effort, however I think having a model answer is more effective + convenient for us to gain more understanding about the lessons.

During the workshop and tutorial, I found it time-consuming when Dr. Nur Ain asked a few students to read paragraphs. It made it challenging for me to maintain interest and focus on the articles and learning materials. Additionally, I believe that having the Q&A session after finishing the discussion of the learning materials would be more beneficial. This way, the majority of students can promptly proceed to the next class.

Additionally, in the tutorial, assigning groups to work on only one question and present it also took up a lot of time. This approach sometimes resulted in students concentrating solely on their assigned question, while neglecting the others. Consequently, they may or may not have been able to answer the remaining questions as they were preoccupied with their selected task.

However, when an Indian associate professor substituted for Dr. Nur Ain in two tutorial classes, we actually preferred his teaching style. He facilitated high-quality intellectual discussion

Every lecture, tutorial and workshop class is well-prepared. Explanations given are very clear.

Excellent teacher

Feel great with this subject

Great

Great Lecturer

I don't understand the purpose of workshop as I don't know what is she trying to teach during the workshop classes. She failed her time management as now we have to attend tutorial before lecture class. She promised to upload pre recorded lecture videos but until now she still haven't upload any. She always late to workshop classes. Her tutorial class teaching style is not suitable for us. She requires the student to answer the questions but she didn't elaborate more. Overall her teaching style is very unclear, as I cannot catch which is the main point she is trying to pin point, it is not straightforward enough.

I have a clear understanding in the lecture and workshop sessions

I think the lectures can be improved because the recorded videos are not always published on time and now we're behind schedule. Plus, there's also no powerpoint slides for Chapter 10 which I found to be quite a big issue because powerpoint slides is a better way of teaching rather than just displaying the textbook. Besides that, during tutorial sessions, I felt that a lot of time were wasted on separating us into groups and working together and then presenting our answers. I would prefer the teacher to just teach us instead of making us teach one another as this could lead to misunderstandings and teaching of wrong information. Plus, with the teacher just guiding us through the tutorial questions straight, it would ensure that we would finish the tutorial questions on time instead of dragging it throughout the next tutorial. Furthermore, I am not very sure on the workshop sessions because it is mostly regarding current issues and almost half the time was spent asking students to read o

Industry examples were given to facilitate my learning.

Lecture is great in involving students to engage and learn to gather. Great effort put in easing students to learn with less pressure with activities.

Lecturer could find a better way to draw on the slide than using a mouse, the words are not quite legible.

Lecturer explained every concept really clear

Lecturer is nice

Lecturer is nice, which makes me feel less intimidated to ask questions, I learnt well.

Lecturer oftentimes not ready the study material before class and poor time management, as she spent too much time on explaining the outside knowledge, leading to the delay of the subject plan. Not really give a clear idea and the direction for most of the lessons, instead just keep providing the outside knowledge or something that's not important to the lesson.

Lecturer try hard to input more practical knowledge for us like the financial forum

Lecturer would show up late to class sometimes and didn't have proper materials to deliver lectures and workshops. Sometimes the lecturer would waste time on unnecessary things like asking students to read articles out loud during workshops and discussing topics that aren't included in the syllabus, leaving less time for the topics that need to be covered for the assessments. Lecturer has also used the lecture slot to go through tutorial questions without delivering a lecture on the topic beforehand, which was quite confusing.

Ms Nur is excellent! I hope can see her for upcoming semester for other finance-related subjects

She is a great lecturer, she has alot of knowledge about this subject. She also always checking with us students are we understanding the topics and always helps us. Thank you Miss Ain.

Teacher is quick and smart, which admires us

The learning and teaching activities were encouraging to learn the concepts and apply formulaes for decision-making.

The lecturer failed her time management, due to following reasons:

i) Her pre-recorded videos are always not uploaded on time. There was also occasion when she said that she will upload the video for that particular chapter, but she never did so.

ii) She cant finish explaining her tutorials as she's always spending time on grouping us, and no clear and direct explanations are given by her. The students answering already cant explain well but she is not explaining again clearly.

iii) She is always late for live lecture online, and talked about other stuff as well, thus wasting our lecture hours and we end up couldnt finish the syllabus. Now she's rushing and teaching very fast, without proper power point slides and recordings.

As she is rushing now, she has to teach the new topic during the tutorial, and we have to do the tutorial on the spot. But the problem is, after she teach, she expects us to give the answer within 5 mins and expect us to explain. When we are not sure

The teacher is good but she's very loud too!

Too stress in tutorial class for workshop classes, our lecturer did not upload materials on time and its fine we still can refer to our digital devices to refer, but she is ALWAYS LATE TO CLASS, like almost all classes since week 1. our class starts at 10am but she always comes at 10.15am. its wasting students time as she start class late and end early, and its fine but she always ask random students to read case study and it almost wasting the remaining 45 mins class. what if the case study she gave is 4 pages long. each of the student are required to read only 1 or 2 paragraphs only. additionally, i dont know what to jot down for the case study since we do not have real final exam questions to discuss on during the entire class. its always reading and giving some examples that are not related to the subject. its always out of the topic and wasted our time. during the online lectures although we students dont like panapto videos but at least upload videos for every chapters if she didnt teach quite clear during
